Press Note

28 May 2019

JNU is pleased to announce that as a part of its Golden Jubilee celebrations it will be hosting a week-long programme of music and cultural events from June 3, 2019 to June 9, 2019. These programmes will include performance by renowned artists, singers and musicians in the country who have been conferred with various national & international awards. JNU has partnered with SPIC MACAY which will be coordinating the event in JNU for free. The JNU community will have the rare opportunity to interact and learn from the artists associated with SPIC MACAY. The event is open even for public provided they register for the specific event by visiting the relevant page on the JNU website.

Over 800 student participants from various colleges and universities of India are expected to join the event. JNU has made arrangements for their stay in various dormitories which are largely vacant these days owing to the Summer Vacation in JNU.

It is a unique privilege for JNU to host these great voices and talents on the campus, and we request all to participate in this festival of music which will generate a cosmic experience of divine sounds and mesmerising presentations. We encourage the students to participate in this grand event with enthusiasm and give a very warm welcome to the artists and the guest students from all over the country. Indeed it is an occasion of pride for JNU community, especially the students, to host this festive gathering and make our guests feel comfortable in JNU.
